

Abstract

An information display device and an information processor for performing, in the case where an image is delivered to information terminals such as a mobile phone varied in display, optimum image processing in accordance with performance of the display of each of the information terminals and content information including a material and an object distance contained in the image in addition to a framework of a color conversion by a color management technology. The information display device and the information processor are also capable of changing parameters of the image processing in accordance with a user image preference and an image texture input by the user.